Dear Principals,

Season's greetings!

The great thing about wanting something with your heart is that powerful enthusiastic vision can help orchestrate whatever actions are necessary to achieve your target of 100% quality pass result. A clear target for your life shall set all kinds of processes into action – both inside and outside of yourself. A powerful vision in your mind is able to tap directly into the creative first cause, because the essence of your mind is also the essence of the universal mind.

Here are few tips to help you achieve your target of 100% pass result:

01. Be clear about what you are looking for (your target). Instead of focusing only on specific outer elements, contemplate what you are really truly looking for in seeking this target. For example, you may think that your target is to achieve 100% pass result. You think about it all the time and plan out your strategies for getting it to the altar. The actual essence of your target is to get 100% result, but you have decided that this alone is the goal which can fulfill aspirations. It's time to imagine details of how your hopes and aspirations may look when they take form. Just be sure to surrender to letting the universe put together the best package deal for whatever essential goal you are ordered through your power of vision and intention.
02. Clarify your mind through academic practices. A strong and clear mind gives more power to your vision, helps you choose and pursue good decisions; and also allows you to pursue the subtle universal guidance that is guiding your way. You can find good academic practices to clarify your mind.
03. Contemplate to see if any part of you believes that you don't deserve your target. You may think you want something but deep down, a little bully figure is saying, 'you don't do it'. Or you may be affected by disgracing words from people who don't have strong faith in your targets. May be you have heard someone expressed out about your target, and you have subconsciously woven those doubts into the fabric of your subconscious mind. If you determine that the negative assessment of others have diminished your faith in your ability to achieve your targets, then you can choose to transform those negative ideas into the energy and motivation to be victorious in your endeavours inspite of others people's doubts.
04. Be clear that this target is something you really want to do. Sometimes you think you want something, but really the desire has been sparked by the words of others. Just ask children of your KV who would practically give their lives to get that new toy or a video game and then ask them again a few years later when they are desiring an expensive handbag or a fancy new car. Look at your own target and question, if they come from your own mind and soul, or from outer sources such as the marketing efforts of advertising agencies. Also ask yourself what outcome you can likely expect if you achieve the target you have set. The cleverer you are about your goals, the better you are able to work toward them with the empowerment of your own conviction.
05. Remember time in your life when you have come through for yourself and accomplished challenging tasks. Then, move toward your current goal with confidence and remembrance of your strengths.
06. Be sure that you are envisioning the target of 100% pass result for yourself and the KVS. Don't forget that the life you are living is your life. Live it! Take chances! How would you feel if you never went for your target.
